

Stewart Construction Offers Handyman and Remodeling Services

Highlands County residents probably know that Stewart Construction is an award winning remodeling contractor. But, they may not know that, in June, the state-licensed company launched a Handyman Division. Contractor, Mark Stewart said, "I saw a need in the community, for the small jobs and being a state-licensed contractor offers a higher level of confidence to the home owner. Stewart Construction is state licensed and insured with workman's comp and liability. This separates us from the back-of-the-truck handyman. Also, we are able to bring in all the trades for a job if needed. That basically makes the job a one-phone call project for the homeowner. It's easy for the homeowner!"

The Stewart Construction Handyman Division typically is called for general repairs around a house: windows, doors, leaky roofs, faucets, installing ceiling fans and light fixtures. Calls include most every repair in a home - yes, even the kitchen sink.

One homeowner commented that it was a better value to hire the Handyman Division than it was to buy the tools and do it themselves. Then the question comes to mind: "What if you do-it-yourself and start the repair and it isn't as simple as it looked and you find yourself in over your head." The Stewart Construction crews are prepared for the unexpected discoveries too.

September is a good time to get all those little repairs completed. Stewart Construction is offering a 30-minute free home inspection or remodeling assessment during the month of September.
